

Ryan Padraig Kelly

Photo by Alex Vasey on Unsplash

Tourism posters

A lot of countries are represented by exactly the image you'd expect. France: the Eiffel tower, Australia: the Opera house on Sydney, Japan: Mount Fuji ...

Photo: Anthony DELANOIX on
Unsplash.com

Photo: Dan Freeman on
Unsplash.com

Photo: David Edelstein on
Unsplash.com

Photo: Marcin Nowak on
Unsplash.com

Photo: Fatih Yürür on Unsplash.com

Photo: Swapnil Bapat on
Unsplash.com

Photo: John Lee on Unsplash.com

Photo: Oliver Schwendener on
Unsplash.com

Photo: Ammie Ngo on
Unsplash.com

Photo: Adrien Olichon on
Unsplash.com

People

For some countries, the most popular Unsplash photo is a person.

Photo: mohammad alashri on
Unsplash.com

Photo: Angelo Moleele on
Unsplash.com

Photo: mulugeta wolde on
Unsplash.com

Photo: Olhar Angolano on Unsplash.com

Photo: Partha Narasimhan on
Unsplash.com

Photo: Mohammed Eissa on
Unsplash.com

Photo: Wil Amani on Unsplash.com

Photo: James Tay on Unsplash.com

Random technology

Unsplash depends on the content provided by its photographers, and sometimes the most popular photo for a country has little to do with that country and more with the photographer who happened to provide the photo. E.g.: a Sony camera for Afghanistan, a Mi Note phone for Botswana, an old MacBook with a random website for Rwanda.

Photo: nasim dadfar on
Unsplash.com

Photo: Emin Sefiyarov on
Unsplash.com

Photo: Toro Tseleng on
Unsplash.com

Photo: mustapha kasule on
Unsplash.com

Photo: One zone Studio on
Unsplash.com

Photo: Old Youth on Unsplash.com

Random military

I was surprised to find that the most popular Unsplash photo for

Hungary was not of the Parliament in Budapest, not of the Balaton lake, but some military parade.

Photo: Eugene Zhyvchik on
Unsplash.com

Photo: chetan sharma on
Unsplash.com

Random nature

Nature can be beautiful, but sometime sit can also be very generic. Some countries have as most popular Unsplash photo a random piece of nature.

Photo: Pema Gyamtsho on
Unsplash.com

Photo: Daniele Franchi on
Unsplash.com

Photo: Lesly Derksen on
Unsplash.com

Photo: L'odyssée Belle on
Unsplash.com

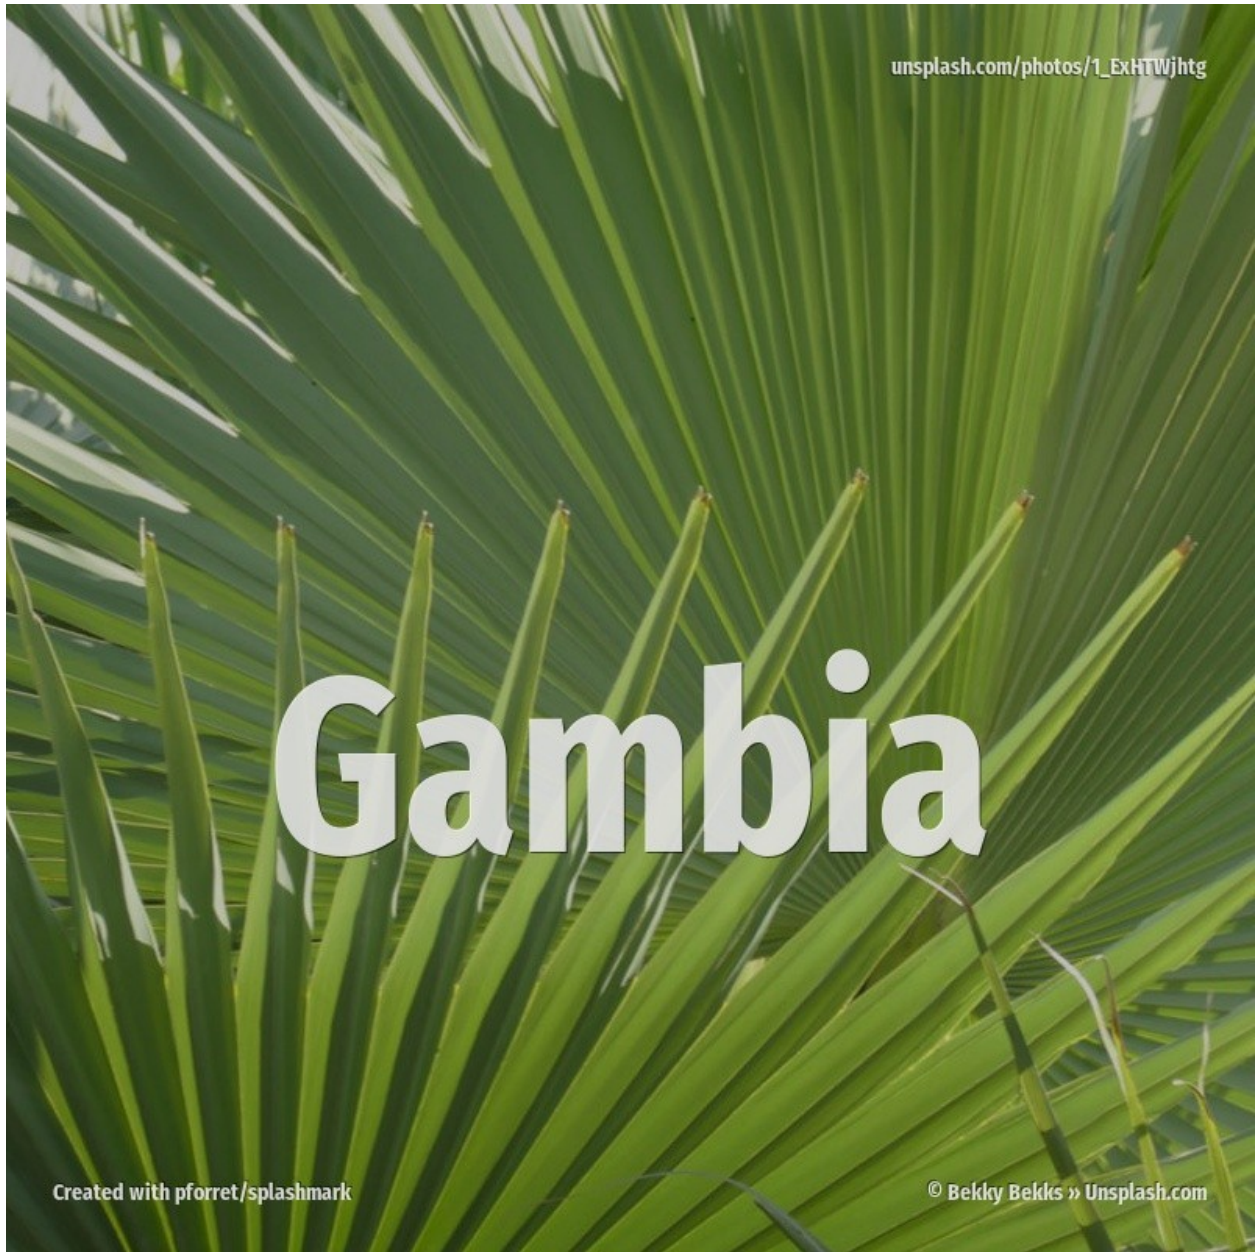

Photo: Bekky Bekks on
Unsplash.com

Photo: Héctor Emilio Gonzalez on
Unsplash.com

unsplash.com/photos/ypB1e1xfi0o

Libya

Created with pforret/splashmark

© Mohamed Sadiq » Unsplash.com

Photo: Mohamed Sadiq on
Unsplash.com

Photo: D.H.F edits on Unsplash.com

Photo: Filip Zrnzević on
Unsplash.com

View from above

It would be hard to choose a representative picture for a country like the USA, and the Unsplash community seems to have chosen a view from above: a picture from NASA.

Photo: NASA on Unsplash.com

